

A. Index to Sentence Contexts of Key Linguistic Variables Displayed on Tables

INDEX TO SENTENCE CONTEXTS OF KEY LINGUISTIC VARIABLES DISPLAYED ON TABLES

The numbers appearing under the column headings PART ONE and PART TWO on the following pages refer to the individual stimulus sentences in which the linguistic variables appear. The Irish versions of the stimulus sentences starting on p. 841 give an idea of the intended linguistic contexts for the individual variables.

The instances of linguistic variables appearing in the list of sentences comprising PART TWO are further distinguished from those of PART ONE by appearing in boldface type. All the linguistic variables listed in the column to the far left have been recorded for at least one speaker.

As mentioned in the introduction to the Tabular Display of Key Linguistic Variables by Island and by Speaker, the linguistic variables themselves have been presented in their Standard Irish forms. In the case of singular nouns displaying phonological variables, usually only the nominative-accusative form of a noun, without the definite article and without initial mutations, is listed.
